Building Surveying Experience

Vic has 13 years building surveying experience together with an extensive and varied background in the building industry, including practical on-site experience gained via his lifetime association with the building industry. This has provided Vic with invaluable knowledge of building construction practices and techniques. Since turning his attention to the profession of building surveying, further studies and his enthusiasm have seen Vic quickly establish himself as a respected professional within this field.

Now partner of Katnich Dodd, Vic has consolidated his building surveying knowledge through day to day involvement and responsibility for a large portion of South Australia's major projects within the residential, health, commercial and multi-storey sectors.
